This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. # PREFACE

THE purpose of this word list is to present the main words that a well-informed person should know at the close of a full elementary school course.

Since at fifteen years of age the study of spelling is usually discontinued, many words have been included in the list because they will probably be useful later. Proper names have always been neglected heretofore in our spelling courses, — a mistake that has been rectified in this book.

An incidental aim is to include all the words incorporated in the list of three hundred revised spellings published in the spring of 1906 by the Simplified Spelling Board, adopted in August by the President of the United States in orders to the Government Printer and to certain other officers, and approved in September by the United States Civil Service Commission. Many of these spellings were already in common use before last spring, and many were becoming familiar. Only a few are really new.

It has not been found necessary to present any words of an offensive or disagreeable nature. Here are approximately ten thousand good words in their modern forms so arranged as to be convenient for review and also as daily lessons of whatever lengths may seem to be desirable in particular instances.

The star (*) indicates that the word is one of the three hundred in the simplified list and is also the accepted spelling at the present time. Two stars () indicate that the word is in the list, but that the revised spelling, though approved by many, is not yet accepted by most writers and printers. Three stars () indicate an unfamiliar spelling.

This matter of reformed spelling is too serious for discussion in the preface of a school word list. Spelling is constantly in process of reform. Print holds language in a vise such as words have never before known. The present debate offers a new issue: Shall the reform proceed as a natural evolution, or shall it be systematic? Shall all-conquering science set even language in order? Or shall bibliolatry, made feverish by commercial interests, prevent even the old natural evolution from proceeding farther? A word is not merely a sign for a thought; often it conditions thought, making it possible. And now some of us propose to make the visual sign of a word, if not the aural, by rule and principle. Reason seems to assert that the spelling of a word shall fairly represent its phonic elements. It is indeed an innovation that has already induced a debate involving at once phonetic science, philology, and literary tradition. Present spellings support some vulgarisms of speech; e.g. "air" for are (är); "been" for been (bĭn).

The principles within the list of revised spellings carried out would accomplish these reforms; viz. —

1. e for æ and for œ; e.g. medieval, not mediæval; esophagus, not œsophagus.

2. omit e before certain suffixes; e.g. abridgment, not abridgement.
3. t for ed in verbs ending in s, sh, and p, and in their participles; e.g. kist, not kissed. It may be questioned whether the latter with its silent s and e and with its d for t is a sincere phonetic factor.
4. cut off silent te at end of words; e.g. omelet, not omelette.
5. se for ce at end of certain words; e.g. defense, not defence.
6. f for gh within words; e.g. draft, not draught.
7. cut off silent gh at end of words; e.g. plow, not plough.
8. ize, not ise; e.g. criticize, not criticise.
9. it, not ite, at ends of certain words; e.g. preterit, not preterite.
10. l for ll; e.g. fulfil, not fullfill (commonly, fulfill).
11. cut off silent me at end of words; e.g. program, not programme.
12. or, not our, at end of words; e.g. honor, not honour.
13. f for ph; e.g. fantasm, not phantasm.
14. r for rr; e.g. pur, not purr.
15. ter for tre; e.g. theater, not theatre.
16. s for z in surprize and in certain other instances.
17. omit, in some words, c after s; e.g. simitar, not scimitar.
18. drop silent ue at end of words; e.g. catalog, not catalogue.
19. e for ea, when short; e.g. stedfast, not steadfast.

Certain other reforms are likely to be proposed: e.g. pius, for pious; jem for gem (j for soft g); holesome for wholesome; nek for neck.

When fully carried out, if ever, these principles would vitally affect many thousands of words.

The standard of spelling followed in these pages for words not simplified as yet has been Webster's International Dictionary. The spellings proposed by Professor F. A. March may be consulted in a monograph published as part of this standard authority.

It must always be remembered that syllabication is not identical with pronunciation.

For about half the words in this list, the alphabetical arrangement has been adopted as a mode of familiarizing pupils with the plan of dictionaries and cyclopedias.

This list has been made from the best daily newspapers and magazines and from standard school histories, geographies, and readers, and has been revised by comparison with the International. It is, therefore, a new list, independent of every other word list or speller hitherto printed, and represents current language as it is used in current literature.

In preparing this list, I have received considerable assistance from Annie Klingensmith, Supervisor of Elementary Instruction, Paterson, N.J., from Eugene F. Beecher of Bradstreets, from Louise Beecher Chancellor, and from several class teachers of experience.

NOTES. — [1] The silent e has been supposed to soften the g. This raises the phonetic question whether or not to use j always for soft g.

[2] Obsolescent in America: philologically defensible, but not so phonetically.

[3] See preface, p. vii.

[4] In every sense, e is extra and useless.

[5] Cumbersome, though philologically defensible.

[6] True to philology, but difficult and unnecessary.

[7] Correct philologically considered but of unpleasant phonic elements.

[8] Philologically incorrect.

[9] Obsolete in America: philologically indefensible.

[10] Philologically and phonetically considered, very little choice between clue and clew.

[11] A useless excess of consonants.

[12] An historical curiosity.

[13] Why not favorit ? See 4.

[14] Defies phonetics.

[15] Preferable philologically to jail but inferior phonetically. See 1 also. Now obsolete in America.

[16] Philologically preferable to mama, but indifferent phonetically. Compare papa.

[17] Why not meger ? See preface.

[18] Inferior to the mold-forms both phonetically and philologically. Compare bold and cold.

[19] By analogy with colt and bolt.

[20] Phonetically inferior to mullen.

[21] Better as philology but worse as phonetics.

[22] The word in both forms is obsolescent.

[23] Obsolete [9] except in Saviour.

[24] Bad both phonetically and philologically considered. Sithe is the Old English form.

[25] See preface, p. vii.

[26] The h is bad both as a phonic element and as an etymological element.

[27] Phonetically inferior to surprize.

[28] One of several spellings: poor, phonetically considered.

[29] Good philology but poor phonics.

[30] The e is good etymology but unnecessary as a phonic element.

General Note. — Philology, especially in its branch science, etymology, seems to dictate the reform of spelling according to past history, while phonetic science suggests reform according to the future needs of cosmopolitan civilization. Education should probably encourage only such reform as lightens the labor of the child in learning to read, and of the scholar in acquiring a mastery of languages and of literatures.

CHANCELLOR'S

GRADED CITY SPELLERS

---

CHANCELLOR'S GRADED CITY SPELLERS constitute the first attempt to provide spelling lessons by grades, from the time that the spelling book is first placed in the hands of the pupil until the completion of the grammar school course.

CHANCELLOR'S GRADED CITY SPELLERS are published in two different forms, bound in full cloth, one series being in seven books, a book for each year from the second to the eighth year of the elementary school course; while the other series consists of two books, the first volume grouping together the work of the second, third, and fourth years, and the second volume embracing the work of the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth years.

The general plan of the series includes a review of drill words from the lessons of the preceding year, daily advance lessons, the use of all important words in suitable sentences, frequent reappearance in the sentences of the difficult words, syllabication of all spelling words, and systematic reviews at regular intervals.

The words to be learned are presented in three different ways:

(a) Alone, not syllabicated, for recognition as they ordinarily appear.

(b) Combined with other words in sentences, thus revealing the significance of the new words.

(c) Syllabicated, for the analysis of the literal elements.

The series is rich in all the ordinary forms of word study. Prefixes and suffixes are treated with clearness and completeness. Synonyms, homonyms, and antonyms are matters of exercise at frequent intervals, and the various forms of word-building based upon the relation of stems and roots are presented with a fullness not surpassed in any other spelling series.

FEATURES OF EXCELLENCE

As the work progresses in the higher books of the series, the supplementary matter, which indeed is a very essential part of spelling, becomes more and more valuable. Abbreviations, marks, and signs used in correspondence and accounts, maxims and proverbs, proper names, initials, capitalization, punctuation, contracted forms — all these are found in abundant variety.

The lessons are constantly suggestive of the other studies in the ordinary school course. The connection with language work is very close throughout the series, and in the higher books many other branches are introduced — a bit of botany or some other familiar science, a fact or two of history, some sentences in descriptive geography, a group of wise sayings from Franklin's writings, a definition or two in mineralogy. These things, supplemented by the occasional longer selections in verse or prose, make up a book that becomes a real golden treasury for each year.

In the book for the fourth year and all successive years, there is a review lesson on almost every page. Certain words which have been found by experience most difficult for pupils to learn and retain are found ten or twenty times in the course of two or three books. This repeated drill cannot fail to fix the words beyond any possibility of forgetting.

The standard of spelling is Webster and the syllabication for pronunciation is also that of the International Dictionary.

CHANCELLOR'S GRADED CITY SPELLERS may be used without regard to the method of spelling adopted, for they are equally adapted to the purpose of oral, written, and visual methods. They are practical children's text-books, not mere teachers' manuals.

For the convenience of schools where the grading is very close or where the year's work is divided into two grades the books for the second, third, and fourth years are supplied in two parts for each year. This furnishes a ten-book series, which is substantially bound in paper.
